Arca-Deli® Awards – visibility for products and services

Several products and services from rare breeds and varieties were awarded the Arca-Deli Award in the last years. If you are on holiday in Europe, you may see this label on a product of a farm or local market. With the Arca-Deli® label it is made visible that the product is very special: The Arca Deli Awards are presented annually during the SAVE meeting to products and services of locally adapted livestock breeds and cultivated plants. The award is presented to products and services seen as being recommendable as a model or example of good practice.

The Arca-Deli Award label can then be used on labelling of products and services as a means of adding value. The award tells customers that producers value the heritage and culture of the community. The Arca-Deli award can be valuable especially on local markets as it tells consumers that there is a local person standing behind the quality of the product. This means that the niche products associated with locally adapted breeds and varieties become, on a small scale, more competitive and more economically viable. It also reminds customers that they are an important part of the conservation of their living heritage.
